Note (1) to art 329 of the Imperial Service Regulations as it now stands and which was copied word for word from the older editions of the British Service Regulations (art 530 Note i) is not anything new, or different from that inserted in the previous edition of the British Service Regulations. Only it was not quite explicit and involved doubt as to how inferior gratuity in the case of Section writers & Press servants was to be computed.

The method hitherto adopted for the calculation of the Inferior Gratuity of Section writers & Press Servants was to take the average of last six monthly bills irrespective of the amount being greater than or less Rs 10/- limit the average thus obtained to Rs 10 in case it exceeded this amount and compute the gratuity on the same in accordance with art

324 (a) ii. In Note (i) to art-329 it is stated that the word "Emoluments" means "the average earnings of the last six months of service" Judging from what immediately follows in the same Note there can be no doubt that the above was intended to apply to the Inferior Gratuity of Section Writers & Press servants. But in no part of the Regulations in the Chapters on Pension is the word "emoluments" used in reference to Inferior servants. It is the word "pay" that is used in their case (vide arts. 258 & 324) The meaning of the word "Emoluments" occurring in the Note to art. 329 is not therefore clear. Substituting however pay for Emoluments" a liberal interpretation was given to the words "Average earnings of the last six months of service" & the method pointed above for computing the Inferior Gratuity of Section writers & Press Servants was adopted. Evidently similar doubt must have risen in the British Account offices, the outcome of which is the modification modification (not alteration) of Note 1 to Art: 530 inserted in the present edition of the British Service Regns. As the question involved was the correctness of the method in computing gratuity and not the application or alteration of any rule the Comptroller apparently thought it his duty to introduce the correct method as soon as he was made aware of it and thought Govt. sanction in such a case unnecessary.

This has reference to a query put by the Ist Comptroller. I am sorry that this was lost sight of till now 2/8/00

Is it really a fair deduction that the attorney has not yet visited the Presidency? P.J.O. 3-8-00.

The amount of Inferior gratuity computed in accordance with the emendation now proposed would be less than that arrived at by the method hitherto adopted. ~~A method which~~ adopted ~~does not appear to be~~ warranted ~~by the Regulations~~ as already laid down in the above by the Hon'ble.

By old method

Pension	Gratuity
Rs. 6-11-6	Rs. 35/4

By new method } Rs. 6-11-6 ... Rs. 25-9-6

Pending the settlement of this question the Application of Cross servants since received have not been disposed of. They are also herewith submitted.
